Biometric Data ***

Biometric data (fingerprints) are stored as a series of data points, converted from images by a mathematical algorithm. These data points cannot be used to reconstruct a useable fingerprint even with the algorithm available. The level of detail stored in these data points is well below the level of detail needed for forensic identification of someone and would be completely inadmissible, both in terms of quality and legality, in court. The data points are encrypted before being stored. The encryption standard used for encrypting the data points is AES 256 with the symmetric key being stored in RSA 2048 <http://csrc.nist.gov/publications/fips/fips197/fips-197.pdf> <http://www.emc.com/collateral/white-papers/h11300-pkcs-1v2-2-rsa-cryptography-standard-wp.pdf> The AES 256 encryption standard is used for storing top secret designated data by the American military and the NSA. Both AES and RSA are well used and commonly understood encryption standards that cannot be broken by brute force in a reasonable time.

* These are defined as sensitive data.
